TREA Offers Cybersecurity Learning Pilot to 20 Member Districts

In Partnership with TriVigil and MASK NextGen

The Texas Rural Education Association (TREA) is excited to offer 20 of its member school districts the opportunity to participate in a pilot of the MASK NextGen cybersecurity education platform, in partnership with TriVigil. MASK NextGen is a gamified cybersecurity training platform designed specifically for students ages 8-18. Built with the challenges of rural schools in mind, it combines interactive learning, real-world simulations, and AI-powered insights to help students build safe online habits, while giving educators the tools to track and support digital safety education.

Pilot Districts Will Receive:

- Full access to MASK NextGen for students and educators
- Admin dashboards for tracking student progress and assigning curriculum
- Customized onboarding and implementation support
- Direct input into product development through feedback sessions
- Priority access to future updates and feature releases

And most importantly, as part of this pilot, participating TREA districts will receive the platform at a heavily discounted rate of just $2 per student. With cyberbullying, online scams, and digital addiction on the rise, MASK NextGen equips students with the knowledge and confidence to navigate the digital world safely, all in a format they love to use.

Want to be one of the 20 districts selected?

Reach out to TREA or contact TriVigil to learn more and reserve your pilot spot.

New Partnership Spotlight: Take Action Global

TREA is proud to announce a new partnership with Take Action Global (TAG)—a nonprofit organization committed to connecting classrooms around the world for meaningful, real-world learning. Together, we look forward to sharing new opportunities, global collaborations, and inspiring content that supports rural educators across Texas.

Stay tuned for more updates as we launch this exciting partnership!
